“ When I think of Craig, I remember his kindness in the way he interacted with everyone at the Kankakee site. He was a people person and that showed by the many voluntary service positions he participated in. I remember his love of life and really enjoyed our many conversations at work reminiscing about his adventures travelling on vacations. I always consulted Craig before going on a trip. I also always consulted Craig before buying any new technology device. Craig knew more about those things than the Geek Squad or an Apple salesperson. I remember Craig’s professionalism and work ethic – he had extensive knowledge throughout the plant, was a hard worker, and was always willing to help others. I was happy to work with Craig on any project. The site is a better place and many people’s lives are better off because of the work he did. Craig will be sorely missed.

“ Craig was a dear friend for nearly 30 years. One of my favorite memories is attending the Renaissance Festival with him and Roger. I still have the picture of the guys held in the stocks like bandits...with wide grins on their faces. I met Craig while working for Albright and Wilson while I was teaching a team building class in Toronto. We had dinner while waiting for rush hour to end and our friendship grew from there. Rest in peace my friend. You were taken too early.
