“ There are so many memories. Like that time when we race each other up a Sandune just to find out it was a four-story drop on the other side. What a hell of a day that was. Or be out on our cross rockets and then having a race back to my house because my girlfriend saw us with a different girl in the back of my bike. When that was all over with, I remember you saying I don't know how you got away with that, must've been a miracle. I'm gonna miss you Joe . You're the one I would all when I needed a voice reason. I guess I'm just gonna have to talk to you through a different channel as all. I know you're still there brother. I love you and I will miss you. Remember when you're up there to make the sky beautiful for Michelle “ Joe fixed my side mirror, told me to try not to get into any accidents "That paint is expensive" but he never charged me. He brought lunch for me and Michelle - I ordered a double dog. He said "Yeah, they don't have those so I got you two hot dogs." And brought them on his Harley. I was having lunch at work during Covid and this guy came up to me "How are you? I'm Joe Kenning. Do you remember me?" How did he remember me. Such a really nice guy. Condolences to Michelle, I know you will miss him.

“ I'm so sad to hear of Joe's passing. First memory of Joe was when I first met him at David and Rachel's house. He had red sweatpant shorts on working in the garage. Eli and Ethan spent a lot of time together growing up. You will be missed by many people. Rest easy Joe and prayers for the whole family.
