“ Rick, Kay & Erin, Too many good memories to recount! This one stands out: Sarah wanted to go fishing in the Clifton pond, so Rick hooked us up with poles, but as we were leaving, he said, "Um...you guys are going to need bait." We both looked at each other not knowing what to do, but then Rick said, "Why don't you dig around in the compost heap and get some grubs?" At first, we were both so disgusted! Eyes wide, we dug into the heap and found these squirmy creatures with what seemed like thousands of legs. We collected a bunch of them and headed to the pond. Once there, I was too afraid to kill them and place them on the hook, so rolling her eyes, she grabbed one and shoved it on my hook. We started to laugh hysterically! Our laughter must have scared all the fish away because we didn't catch a thing. What a metaphor for our friendship: she was always the bravest among us.

Take care,
